Because Women Understand Women

BEING AN ALL-WOMAN LED TRAVEL ORGANIZATION, WE UNDERSTAND YOUR TRAVEL NEEDS

When we picture Ladakh, the first thing that comes to mind is its scenic beauty. After all, it is home to two of the world's mightiest mountain peaks- the Himalayas and Karakoram. But, more than that it is an ecosystem where you can witness all the elements of nature in a rendezvous, that otherwise need sightseeing across multiple countries.

Ladakh's splendor is what draws a lot of travelers to the place. And like the others, this is what I had in mind when I first went to visit the place. I was spellbound not just by its captivating mystique but also because it had changed something in me.

Even though I've traveled more than half of the world, I haven't found a place like Ladakh, whose vibrations echo in your hearts even when you're not physically present there. It's a life-changing experience, which led to Triyana.

Today, I share my experience with hundreds of travelers, especially women, who want to enjoy an experiential vacation and look forward to a cathartic escapade of liberation. Through Triyana Travel Club, we help travelers like you witness the real paradise that Ladakh is, both inside and out.

AN EXPERIENTIAL NIGHT AT LADAKH'S FARM-TO-TABLE RESTAURANT, SYAH

Ladakh's new fine dining restaurant, Syah is an experience you can't afford to miss. Be it the mesmerizing seating, candle-lit dinners under the white canopy, the gentle breeze rushing into your hair from the lush greenery around, and the larger than life dinner menu, there are more than a few reasons you'll love this place. The luxury restaurant, also featured in Conde Nast's Traveller, owns a courtyard that is adjacent to an organic farm.

TURTUK: INDIA'S LITTLE HAMLET

Wonderland of Turtuk, an unknown little hamlet, flanked by Nubra on one side and Battistan on the other, lies along the shores of Shyok River. An enigma in itself, this curious little settlement of 4000 people is the last northernmost village before Pakistan - Occupied Kashmir.

Women empower women. At Triyana this has been our motto. Don't believe me? Hear what some of these amazing woman travelers have to say

This vacation was slightly one I'd never signed up for before - a group vacay from women (likeminded) all over the globe. It was a magical experience exploring Ladakh with Triyana. Rugged mountains on one side and the pristine waters of the pangongtso on the other. Triyana organized our stay from day 1 to day 7 with every aspect of fun n frolic in mind. From leh city to some of the most breathtakingly beautiful landscapes never seen before. My son totally enjoyed the ATV and RAFTING experience. How can I not mention the Lehcafe and ladakhi food. All thanks to the immaculate arrangements by our host and Triyana.
